ZOMBA PLATEAU

Rising above the mist, the 2085-meter high Zomba Plateau overlooks the historic town of Zomba, Malawi's former capital. The road up the plateau is a spiral with some breath taking views. The entire plateau is a tranquil forest reserve renowned for its temperate climate, natural splendour and magnificent vistas. When you get to the Queen or Emperor's viewpoints, you are nearly 2000m high and having a picnic here is a unique experience. In the background, Mulanje Mountain, Malawi's highest peak and probably the highest in Southern Africa, stands out rising 3002m above the Phalombe Plains. Lake Chilwa, Malawi's only inland drainage lake lies to the east of the plateau. Below lies the town of Zomba, a treasure trove of colours and vibrant markets, which reminds visitors of old colonial days.

Travelling to Zomba is a full day excursion from the Makokola Retreat and our trip includes a 2.5 hours, 160km drive each way with the option of an inclusive packed lunch or eating at the Kuchawe Inn, at your own expense.
